Mark DePaolo, DVM earned his veterinary degrees from both Oregon State University and Washington State University in 1994. After working at 2 mixed animal practice clinics, Dr. Mark decided to specialize in holistic equine health care. He furthered his education by learning Equine Chiropractic and Acupuncture in order to open his own practice, All Star Equine. He graduated from Colorado State University's Acupuncture program in 2000.

In 2005, Dr. DePaolo's passion for holistic equine health spurred him to create a new venture, DePaolo Equine Concepts, Inc. This web-based business focuses on equine nutrition and owner education. Dr. DePaolo is constantly striving to create new methods to address the many problematic issues people experience with their horses.

Looking to broaden the awareness of holistic equine medicine, Dr. DePaolo moved to Horse Country USA in the summer of 2011. Using Pilot Point, Texas as his base of operations for both All Star Equine and DePaolo Equine Concepts, he strives to build long term relationships with clients based on integrity, willingness to help each client understand their Horse's specific concerns and using a "common sense" approach to equine health.
